

Russell Portenoy serves as the Executive Director of the MJHS Institute for Innovation in Palliative Care and Chief Medical Officer of MJHS Hospice and Palliative Care. He is a Professor of Neurology and Family and Social Medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. Prior to joining MJHS, Dr. Portenoy was founding Chairman of the Department of Pain Medicine and Palliative Care and the Gerald J. Friedman Chair in Pain Medicine and Palliative Care at Beth Israel Medical Center, New York.

Dr. Portenoy is past-president of the American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine and past-president of the American Pain Society. He received the 2015 Galen Miller Leadership Award of the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization and the European Association for Palliative Care's 2016 Ventafridda Prize for excellence in palliative care research.

Dr. Portenoy has been Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Pain and Symptom Management for three decades, co-edits the Oxford Textbook of Palliative Medicine, and is editor for the palliative care section of The Oncologist.