

CME Mission Statement

American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine

The American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine seeks to provide a continuing medical education (CME) program that supports and advances the knowledge and skills needed for the physician to practice effectively in hospice and palliative medicine. The intent of the CME program is to advance the competence and/or performance of practitioners in all career stages and practice settings who provide care to those with serious or life-threatening conditions and their families. The areas to be addressed include all domains as defined by the National Consensus Project for Quality Palliative Care. AAHPM will ensure that its membership and other interested practitioners have access to both the core knowledge and ongoing advances in hospice and palliative medicine, in order to enhance knowledge and skills necessary for competence and/or improved performance in the field of palliative care.

Reviewed and updated, Education and Training Committee, November 2014

Reviewed and updated, Education and Training Committee, September 2012

Reviewed and updated, Education and Training Committee, January 2010

Reviewed and updated, Education and Training Committee, May 2009

Reviewed and updated, Education and Training Committee, June 2008

Reviewed and updated, CME Committee, April 2007

Reviewed, CME Committee, January 2006

Reviewed, CME Committee, February 2005

Reviewed and updated, CME Committee, August 2004

Highlight the expected results of your CME program, articulated in terms of changes in competence, performance, or patient outcomes. (C1)