* Many of our clinical experts and staff planners have multiple COI forms on file, beginning 2010.

SPECIAL NOTE: Dr. Argoff disclosed his COI at the beginning of every discussion; he always worked in a group of planners-content developers and any organization who uses him as faculty must manage-resolve conflict individually. AAHPM has elected NOT to use Dr. Argoff as faculty.

Description of COI Process with CO*RE Content Development

1. All CO*RE faculty, planners and staff involved with content development completed the COI forms.

2. Drs Argoff and Stanos were originally involved with discussion of content planning for CO*RE slides; Dr. Argoff attended several in-person planning meetings held in Chicago. After discussions initiated by APS, CO*RE decided to discontinue the faculty relationship with both Drs Argoff and Stanos. This action was taken not for reasons of suspected bias but instead as a result of the doctors' involvement with ER/LA opioid initiatives external to the CO*RE partnership, as CO*RE had asked its expert faculty to work only on the CO*RE project. Neither physician presents on behalf of CO*RE at this time.
3. All CO*RE reviewers completed COI forms. The reviewers were Harry Gould, Deb Gordon and Anna Kokayeff. Anna Kokayeff had nothing to disclose. Deb Gordon's disclosures were very straightforward and not deemed to be in conflict. While Harry Gordon did disclose several financial relationships with commercial funders, none of his projects or pharmaceutical companies work in the ER/LA opioid space. CO*RE ultimately determined that Dr. Gordon's relationships do not present a conflict of interest.

Additional staff and faculty involved in the planning and presentation of the webinar series completed and/or updated disclosures.

| Name of individual in control of content | Role | Name of ACCME-defined commercial interest | Nature of the relationship |
|--|---------|---|--|
| Ronald J. Crossno, MD | Faculty | Gentiva Health Services, Inc. | Salary: Senior National Medical Director |
| John F. Manfredonia, DO | Faculty | Gentiva Health Services, Inc. | Salary: National Medical Director |
| Julie Bruno, MSW LCSW | Staff | None | |
| Kemi Ani | Staff | None | |

After review, employment with Gentiva Health Services, Inc. does not meet the ACCME definition of a commercial interest so there were no relationships requiring resolution.
